(FROM MINOR VIOLATOR TO TERRORISM RECOGNITION)*

NOVEMBER 18, 2010

8:30 A.M.-4:30 P.M.

ILLINOIS STATE FAIRGROUNDS—EXPO BUILDING

Recent events have placed local, police officers at risk from not only everyday encounters with traffic violators, but also with suspected terrorists and domestic groups intent on killing patrol officers. Vehicle stops are one of the most hazardous duties performed by police officers; no two traffic stops are ever the same. This one day, scenario-based seminar is designed to teach officers the tactical tactics for making traffic stops from positions of advantage and safety.

Officers will learn to recognize and respond to the presence of IEDs in vehicles and on subjects. This block will include both classroom and scenario activities. Officers will review Department of Homeland Security protocols for local department contact with suspected and known terrorists, as well as scene safety and personnel safety protocols. Officers will be examine their role as local agencies in the Joint Terrorism Task Force (JTTF) network. The scenarios will include IED mockups and hostage situations

Participants will actively participate as both officers and subjects/offenders in the scenarios. Officers will use and encounter handguns and long guns. Role players will also have IEDS, Meth lab equipment, WMDs, and other contraband items. Officers will find clues to possible criminal and terrorist activity. The scenarios are real-time, and can rapidly accelerate, based on the officer's control (or lack of control) of the encounter. Command Presence will be emphasized as a tool for safety and maintaining control of subjects during traffic stops.

COURSE GOALS:

- Learn tactics for squad car placement on traffic stops.
- Learn techniques for removing and controlling multiple vehicle occupants.

- Learn how to control multiple subjects on stops.

Officers are encouraged to have either sweatshirts or long sleeve shirts available to wear. Face protection and weapons will be issued at the training site.

The instructors are Michael Drumm, Rick Emerson, and Rich Ryan. All are certified, full-time police officers, and are members of the Illinois Tactical Officers Association and the International Law Enforcement Educators and Trainers Association. Drumm is also a DHS contract instructor.
